TWO OF ENTOMBED
MINERS AT DAWSON
COME OUT ALIVE

Rest of 122 Men in Mine When Explosion Occurred Yesterday Afternoon Still Uncounted For

MINERS SAID TO HAVE BEEN 5,000 FEET IN GROUND

By Associated Press.

DAWSON, Feb. 9.—Two miners of the hundred and twenty-two entombed yesterday in Phelps Dodge corporation mine, came out alive today. They walked out unassisted. As they neared the mine mouth they were met by a rescuing party coming in. They said they extinguished their lights when the explosion came. Mine officials say this undoubtedly saved their lives as it eliminated chance of an explosion in their vicinity.

The explosion occurred at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and tore away all of the heavy concrete work at the mouth of the main entry.

Within a short time after the blast, rescue workers had cleared the debris from the mouth of the mine and a rescue crew, led by W. D. Brennan manager of the mine entered.

The imprisoned miners are believed to be about 5,000 feet from the portal of the mine.

The explosion did not wreck the mine fan and ventilation was soon established.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. The statement by the company declared the mine was well sprinkled and was not gaseous.

COAL OPERATORS
TO MEET FEB. 23

Governors Of Ky. And Tenn. Invited To Attend Knoxville Meeting

KNOXVILLE, Feb. 9.—Plans are rapidly maturing for the annual meeting and banquet of the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators Association to be held in Knoxville February 23.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky, has been invited to the banquet and really, should attend for he certainly is wanted by the boys and will be given a regular Kentucky homecoming welcome.

Governor Austin Peay, of Tennessee has also been invited, and he, too, will be given the glad hand if he can get away from his reconstruction program in connection with the sessions of the Legislature.

Judge Lindsay will act as toastmaster, as usual which means unusual, for the Judge has something new every year for each and every minute he performs. This year members can bring their friends at the usual cover charge of two per notifying duly Secretary Howe.

Of course there will be a business session, and this year many matters of vital importance will come up for discussion.

Reports of committees will be received including that of the nominating committee who will name the officials and board to direct the affairs for the next twelve months.

The chief speaker before the business meeting will be Mr. Dorr, counsel for the Bituminous Coal Operators Committee which is preparing the soft coal operators' side to the "Fault Finding Committee."

The banquet will be at Whittle Springs Hotel, an ideal place where plenty of Whittle Water will be available.

Ed. Stegall, chairman of the entertainment committee promises that this year's feature will surpass any past performance, and that something will be coming over the tippie every minute after the whistle blows.—Appalachian Trade Journal.

DAMAGED TELEPHONE LINES BEING REPAIRED AT RIVER

Cumberland telephone lines which were washed out near Four Mile creek in this county Sunday were expected to be repaired this afternoon, according to Guy Glover, district manager. Telephone service to Brush Creek and Greasy Creek has been entirely stopped since the Cumberland river washed out the lines.

It is said that floating debris became massed against the poles, thus pushing them to the water. Floating limbs, trees and other rubbish caught on the wires and soon tore them away. A force of repairmen was rushed to the scene as soon as the occurrence was reported and has been at work on the lines all week.

FEWER BOOKS LAST YEAR BUT BETTER

Poetry and Drama Gain Popularity—America's Read.

ing More

By Associated Press.

Only 6363 new books were published last year in America. You wonder why the "only." It seems a lot. But in 1921 the total was 10,310.

Figures along this line mean much to anyone trying to watch the activity of the American brain in its alternating cycles of stimulation and depression.

A falling off of a third in the number of new books published, however, doesn't necessarily reveal the amount of reading being done by the public. For instance, 100 new books selling an average of 1000 copies each, or a total of 100,000 copies, do not mean as much as one good book selling 150,000 copies.

The public unquestionably read more books last year than the year before. That might not show up in the total number of volumes sold, for at least five times as many people borrow books as buy new copies.

The drop in the number of new books issued last year does mean that publishers are selecting manuscripts more carefully before putting their money and sales organization behind them.

Few new works of fiction are being published than in 1922. The movies explain that. They supply fiction without the bother of wading through type. On the average, one hour of movies provides more genuine diversion, entertainment and relaxation than 10 hours of printed fiction.

The poets and dramatists seem to be getting a larger audience. Last year 630 new works of verse and drama were published compared with 229 in 1922.

Geography and travel, in the matter of new books, has shown very little change in the last 20 years. Biography has fallen off a third; we get our great men in the daily news.

The World War has made many of us interested in original causes. Which probably explains why 518 different works of history were published last year, compared with 165 in 1922.

When you observe that 17,173 new books were published in our country during the last two years, you realize how few books out of the total the average person has time to read. To wade through all of them, you would have to read nearly 24 volumes a day.

Considering that very few of the total are really worth considering, it is all for the best that readers are pressed for time. The trouble is that, in the labyrinth of new books, a reader is rather dazed about which few to peruse. Newspaper editors cause this and the old-time book review department is returning to favor.

A side window had been broken open to afford means of escape from the garage, but the tracks outside did not indicate that entrance had been made at this place. The money was obtained by forcing open a roll top desk with a screw-driver.

Observations over periods of from one to five days showed that neither the mice nor rats so much as nibbled at the match heads.

NEWS SERVICE FOR WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Mrs. G. M. Martin Takes Kentucky Editorship of Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke's Service

Mrs. George Madden Martin, well-known Louisville author, has accepted the consulting editorship for Kentucky of the Women's News Service which has been incorporated in New York. This service, according to Mrs. Martin, who is much in favor of the idea, has for its aim the collecting and marketing of all news of value concerning women's activities. Its policy is to be all-partisan and will serve the interests of all women's organizations.

Mrs. Martin feels that the time has come to present women's activities to the public in a more complete and interesting manner than has been done heretofore. The idea of the service originated several years ago at the Biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. A speaker from the floor demanded why the usual woman's page of the American newspaper contained itself with such poor material as it did. The result was the germination of the idea of a woman's news service.

The plan so far evolved is this—a weekly service letter will be sent out which will contain five main feature stories—an editorial news letter, a cartoon illustrating something in which women are particularly interested and a children's feature. In addition special stories and reports can be obtained when desired.

The officers of the Women's News Service are president, Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke of the Pictorial Review; vice-president, Mrs. Robert J. Burdette; secretary, Mary Swain Routzahn; treasurer, Miss Bruere.

DELEGATES ON NATIONAL PARK
PROJECT LEAVE

T. R. Hill and A. P. Liebig Go Tonight to Take Matter Up With L. M. U. Trustees and Congress Committee

ASK L. M. U. HOLDING ON PINNACLE FOR NATIONAL PARK

T. R. Hill and A. P. Liebig will go to Washington tonight to confer with L. M. U. trustees and the congressional committee in the interest of a national park for Cumberland Gap. These men are being sent by the Middlesboro Kiwanis, but they represent this entire section, and resolutions endorsing their mission have been passed by neighboring towns and other organizations here.

Middlesboro's avowed aim in working to secure this park is to join itself with L. M. U. and nationalize the University while creating a national institution for Middlesboro. Unless the University can be interested in the proposition it will fail because its holdings on the Pinnacle are the most desirable holdings for the park.

Interested Middlesboro persons have been assured by some influential University trustees that the University would be favorable to this plan and Mr. Hill and Mr. Liebig have been invited to be present at a banquet of the University board of trustees in Washington Monday. At this time the Middlesboro delegates will be given an opportunity to present their proposition, the details of which will be made public later. If they are successful in interesting these trustees in the project to the extent of their consent to allow their holdings on the Pinnacle to be given over for use as a national park, Mr. Hill and Mr. Liebig will then go before the Congressional committee on public lands which meets Tuesday morning. They will lay before this committee the claims Cumberland Gap possesses for a national park in the hopes of favorable action.

In going after this park Middlesboro makes no fight against any other locality and certainly not against its Virginia neighbors, but rather it is desired to present the advantages of this locality in the hope that it may be selected along with other localities for the establishment of a national park. Any act of Congress now will only be an enabling act and will carry no appropriation. No definite developments are expected until a later Congress.

HARDING ENDORSES
L. M. U. IN LETTER

Chief Executive Lauds School In Mountains In Public Endorsement

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Characterizing the Lincoln Memorial University in the Tennessee mountains as "a living memorial to Lincoln," President Harding endorsed its work in a letter made public by the New York committee in charge of the Lincoln memorial meeting to be held here on his birthday.

"I am sure I do not need to tell you how greatly I feel the need for directing to its ultimate achievement the splendid piece of educational work which is represented by the Lincoln Memorial University," the president wrote. "This work was begun 25 years ago, in memory and at the specific request of Abraham Lincoln. The men of the mountains have in every crisis given to the country their first allegiance and best efforts the children of the mountains Americans for generations, would gladly offer the same service again tomorrow.

"Most sincerely I wish you well in your effort to establish this college of the people, for the people by the people, upon a secure basis. I hope it may become the means of placing higher education within the reach of every youth of the mountain region; for this university is a living memorial to Lincoln erected in his own land and for his own people."

THE PROPOSED LINCOLN NATIONAL PARK

What can be a happier proposal than the one discussed yesterday at the Kiwanis meeting, namely, the formation of a national Lincoln park on the Pinnacle mountain overlooking Middleboro and Cumberland Gap? Not only will such a park nationalize Lincoln Memorial University, the greatest living memorial to Lincoln in the world, but it will naturally nationalize Middleboro, as the "Magic City of the Mountains," the city which is adjacent to and related naturally to the park and the University.

Lincoln Memorial University has been struggling for twenty-five years to carry out its great mission of providing an educational opportunity for every youth of the mountains who seeks an education. This noble purpose is so in keeping with the expressed wish of President Lincoln to "do something for the people of the mountains" and the American people are now so beginning to recognize the fact that the University is really carrying out in an effective manner this specific purpose, nothing can be more appropriate than enlarging the enterprise by establishing near the environs of the University a great national park to bear Lincoln's name, and to be developed as a spot which will become a mecca for Lincoln lovers the world over.

This park would naturally contain a statue of Lincoln and other historic features would be worked out in an effective way. Cumberland Gap in some respects rivals Lookout Mountain, not only in historical background but in beauty and grandeur. It stands unique in American history.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago, Cumberland Gap and Middleboro were effectively advertised and our city with its boasted advantages has been living and progressing from the impetus it received at that time. A few impetus is badly needed, since we are becoming connected with the outside world by highways of which we are proud, and nothing would do more to give us the additional prestige and standing necessary than the establishment of the national park as suggested.

We wait with impatience the result of the meeting in Washington where it is expected that the plan for the park will be carefully worked out. It is a big thing for this whole region, and we must go after it to win. Every organization of the city, every church, every lodge, every club, should follow out the suggestions which will undoubtedly be made later by the Kiwanis Club, as soon as the real situation in regard to the project is determined. A solid front by the leaders of the city, Cumberland Gap and the University ought to bring out this deserved and appropriate honor to the most honored son of the mountains.

Income Tax Facts No. 5.

Liability to file an income tax for the year 1922 is determined by a person's status on the last day of the taxable year, December 31. If the return is made on the calendar year basis as most are. If on that date he was a single man he must file a return if his net income for 1922 was $1,000 or more, and he is allowed an exemption of $1,000. If he was married on December 31 he is granted the exemption allowed a married person for the full year $2,500 if his net income was $5,000 or less, and $2,000 if his net income exceeds $5,000. The bride's income, however, must be considered with that of her husband the larger exemptions being allowed married couple living together. A widow or widower whose spouse died before the end of the year is classed as a single person. Divorced and persons separated by mutual consent also are classed as single persons.

Similar conditions exist with respect to the head of the family. If, during the year, his support of relatives caused he is entitled only to the $1,000 exemption. A man who has a dependent child, not mentally or physically defective that attains the age of 18 years just before the close of the taxable year, can not claim the $100 credit for a dependent.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mr. Stumps, the fairy postmaster of the Fairyland Postoffice, sent Nancy and Nick to start a postoffice in Wigglefin Land, under the sea.

It was at the Cross Roads where Cap'n Pennywinkle sat all day long on Curly, his sea-horse, directing traffic in the right direction.

Cap'n Pennywinkle kept the big fishes from bumping into the little fishes, and he was very busy, I can tell you.

Nancy and Nick were busy, too, sorting out valentines the wigglefins sent to each other. So busy that they hadn't time to stop for meals! Charley had sent Shiny Shad a valentine like this:

"The ocean's full of water,
And the land is full of stones.
And the whale is full of blubber.
But the shad is full of bones."

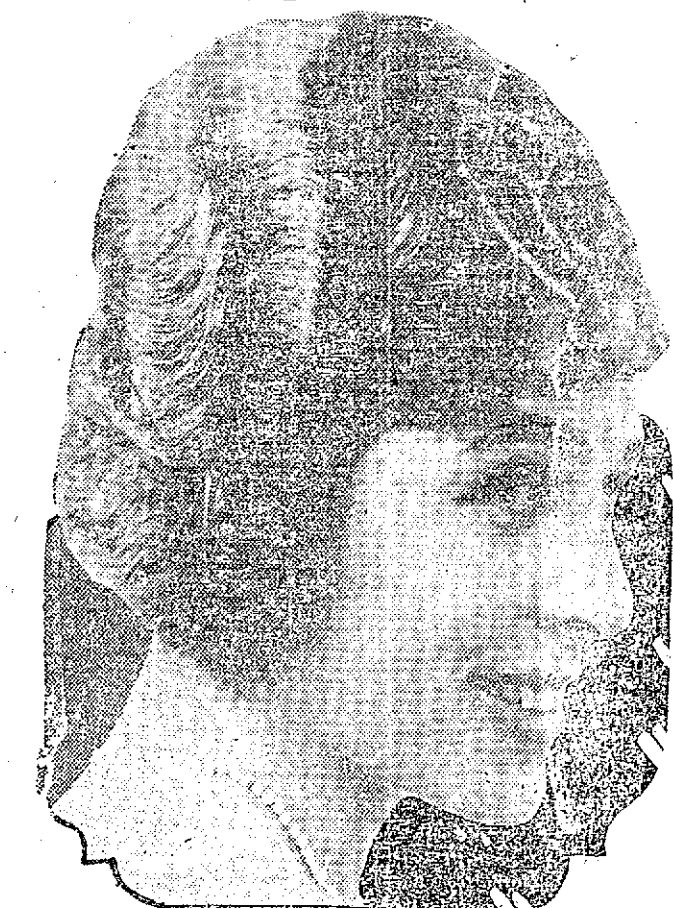

That made Shiny Shad mad and he sent this one back to Charley Cod:

"A man went fishing in the ocean
With a hook and line and rod,
Just because he had a funny notion,
That he'd catch old Charley Cod.
Bye and bye he up and caught him.
And he slowly pulled him in."

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

TRIALS OF DOLLING UP

By Allman

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, has a visitor, CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child, DOROTHY. Kate is much perturbed.

Wooed by JAMES LATHAM she decides she must first fathom the mystery of Dan's past. Seeking light, she asks Alice and Dorothy to visit her at the home of her father, JUSTIN PARSONS but their stay draws toward a close with no further revelation.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

During the stay of Alice and Dorothy in her home, Kate discovered a new Alice.

She seemed not at all the tawdry, cheap, tam-o-shanter little waif who had entered her sitting room, a few weeks before and shaken the very foundations of her universe with her statement about Dan and her denials.

Dan wasn't mentioned during the entire visit and Kate was glad whatever the past, she had come to have a kindly feeling for the girl and a genuine affection for her child.

Dorothy had become fond of Kate and accepted her very much as a part of her small life. The first morning of her stay she looked to Kate to button the little white frock that she marched into the sitting room with and demanded breakfast before Alice appeared.

Kate loved the child for her very ordering of her about and on Sunday evening, when Alice was preparing to return to the little city and her work she suggested that Dorothy be allowed to remain with her.

"It's hard to let her be away from me for even one day," smiled Alice, as she looked at the child. "Do you want to stay, Dorothy?" she asked.

Dorothy nodded and voiced a very enthusiastic "Yes!"

So it was that when Alice boarded the train, Dorothy remained on the platform, clinging to Kate's hand.

Alice raised the window while the train waited at the station. She put out her hand. Kate took it.

"There is something I'm sorry for," Alice was leaning on the window sill and speaking in a low tone. "I don't know just how—"

The train was moving. Alice stopped speaking. She waved and was carried away.

Kate wondered what Alice had wanted to say. She dismissed the matter almost immediately, however, and chatted gaily with Dorothy as they walked back to the cottage of Justin Parsons.

"I do like to see you smiling again," said her father as she entered the gate. "and I'm glad you kept this little lady—she reminds me a bit of you when you were a little 'bad, Kate'."

As he spoke Justin took the hand of the child and started off across the yard with her.

Kate went into the house and upstairs to the room which contained the queer battered little trunk and which Alice had so recently occupied.

As she crossed the floor a small round bit of paper caught her eye.

It was the photograph of a man, rather young probably dark eyed and dark haired, with a slim delicate face.

It was a face Kate Ward never had seen before. She turned it over to examine it further and discovered on the back of it the initials J.D.G.

OLDEST BIBLE BOUGHT BY AMERICAN

By Associated Press

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—A German Bible dating back to the thirteenth century, and believed to be the oldest of its kind in existence is reported to have been sold to an American by a private citizen of Berlin. The book is written on parchment and is valued at $15,000.

The Mexican government has seized two million acres of land. The middle acre would be a fine place for a singing school.

April's Waiting Tiptoe

Sometime 'twill be bird-time
Though now the storms may sweep
Sometime 'twill be brook-time,
Though now the ice lies deep;
Sometime 'twill be blossom-time,
Though now the drifts are swirled
April's waiting tiptoe
Just over the edge o' the world.

Never was there a Winter
But stepped aside for Spring;
Never was a silence
But something came to sing;
Never was a bleakness
But blossom-buds unfurled,
April's waiting tiptoe
Just over the edge o' the world.

Can't you catch a message,
Thrilling through the air?
Can't you hear the melody
It has not far to fare!
Can't you smell the fragrance
Of blossoms shower-pealed?
April's waiting tiptoe
Just over the edge o' the world.

Good Manners

Sometimes it happens that persons who are on bad terms with one another meet socially at a mutual acquaintance's house. It goes without saying that they are bound by every rule of good manners to permit no sign of ill-feeling between them to appear in their behavior. They needn't "kush" but they will make at least a pretense of ordinary civil relationship.

BAPTISTS PLAN S. S. CAMPAIGN

Week's Convention Here February 25 to March 4—To Take City Census

Arthur Flake, Superintendent of the Department of Sunday School Administration of the Southern Baptist Convention, the State Secretaries Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Gardiner and helpers for the campaign Miss Virginia Lee and H. E. Ingraham of Louisville will arrive in Middlesboro Saturday, February 24 and will launch the First Baptist Sunday school campaign on the twenty-fifth by taking a complete and accurate census of every individual in Middlesboro.

Plans are now being perfected for the organization of 200 workers to begin the census taking on Sunday afternoon, February 25, completing the entire census of the town before the close of that day. Census cards sufficient to include every individual in the city are now in the hands of several workers. The necessary instruction have already been distributed to a number of workers in order that they may thoroughly understand and have themselves in readiness to begin work as directed.

The program will be carried through the week and up to and including March 4. The daily program will be as follows:

- 6: P. M. Class Period.
- 7:00 P. M. Lunch
- 7:30 P. M. Address by Arthur Flake
- 8:15 P. M. Class period

Books and teachers are as follows: Cradle Roll Beginners and Primary Departments. Plans and Programs, Mrs. W. A. Gardiner; Junior Department How to teach and Train them, Dr. W. A. Gardiner; Intermediate, (subject not given) Miss Virginia Lee; Senior and Adult, Building the Bible Class, H. E. Ingraham.

All Teachers Enrolled

Every officer and teacher in the school, unless impossible, will be enrolled in one of the classes and in addition to this a large number of prospective officers and teachers will be enrolled in these classes. The present force of officers and teachers number around sixty and with the school increasing and the crowded conditions in some of the departments it is necessary to enroll additional workers for the continuous growth of the school.

There has been passed among a number of the workers a leaflet, "Building the Sunday School." This is of untold value to the Sunday School worker and should be studied thoroughly. It will be a great help to any officer and teacher who is interested in a bigger and better Sunday School and a more efficient organization. If you have not been furnished with one of these leaflets please make inquiry of the pastor for one. It will be an inspiration in your work.

Arthur Flake has been, for a great number of years, connected with Sunday School work and is efficient in this line of work in every respect. He comes to us with broad experience and is a man of authority in the Sunday School work. Any officer, teacher, or anyone who is interested in Sunday School work who fails to take part in this program will miss something that can never be made up in a life time.

State Secretaries Coming

Mr. Flake will be ably assisted by the State Secretaries, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Gardiner, and other helpers. Brother Gardiner and his wife have been with us on previous occasions and we have well enjoyed having them and have been left with greater enthusiasm and inspiration in our lives because of them.

We look forward to the date on which the campaign will be launched.

Local committees to co-operate in this campaign follow: Committee on census taking, C. F. Otey, Chairman; J. W. Allison, P. M. Parsons, W. C. Starr and Elmer Russell; committee on attendance, J. W. Allison, chairman; T. R. Hill, Ed. Hoe, Mrs. J. W. Charlton, Miss Laura Cooke and Miss Nora Newman; Fellowship and home committee, L. D. Hill, chairman; Guy Glover and R. B. Hatfield; committee in charge of kitchen and sewer, Miss Gladys Parker, chairman; Miss Delphia Herndon, Miss Addie Fine and Miss Carrie Pennabaker; committee in charge of transportation, J. W. Wilson, chairman, director of music, Will Hoe.

Millionaire's Sons Solve Job Problem
By Bucking Own Father in Business

ORANGE N. J., Feb. 9.—Can a millionaire's son make good working for a living?

"Surest thing, if he takes the job seriously," says young Frank Whelan.

"And if he's got nerve enough" adds his brother Albert.

Nerve? That's the chief stock in trade of the Whelan brothers. They had nerve enough to buck their millionaire father in business competition.

They've got a chain of five cigar stores and they're planning more. Each store is in a battle for business against units in the chain of fifteen stores run by their father, Charles A. Whelan, chairman of the board of the United Cigar Stores Company.

"What does father think? You'll have to ask Dad—I guess he knows," said the elder brother, Frank.

"Dad," at his New York office had nothing to say; the inference is that the junior Whelans are paddling their own canoe.

Still in his twenties, Frank got tired of the law business after qualifying as a lawyer at Fordham University. So he got a job as clerk in a cigar and drug store started by his brother-in-law, John Tobin Cassidy, in Orange, their home town.

Then brother Albert came in and they formed the Whelan-Cassidy Company and established four more stores in East Orange, Bloomfield, Rutherford and Rahway.

"Albert and I worked darn hard

FRANK AND ALBERT WHELAN BEHIND THE COUNTER OF THEIR ORANGE STORE.

when we launched the business," said Frank. "We got up at 6:30 in the morning and still do. We get behind the counters ourselves. And many Saturday nights we're on the job until 12 or 1."

They've got a system of work. This is it says Frank:

"Eat a big breakfast and you're ready for a big day's work. That's the system we follow. Pacing up and down behind a counter and keeping a smile, even for the chronic kicker, isn't as easy as it looks. It's easier though if you are well stoked to start with."

Three cheers beat six jeers.

Born fools seldom outgrow it.

Buy Coal On Installment Now, Let Bank Worry

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Feb. 9—A dollar and a half down and a dollar and a half a month for ten months buys your coal, per ton, on the installment plan—if you live in Port Washington.

Alexander Stern conceived the idea. The Port Washington Taxpayers Association put it into practice. The Port Washington National Bank did the financing. And 200 members of the association are going to listen to the music of the chime as their next winter's coal supply rattles into 200 cellars next April.

"Other towns are welcome to the idea, it isn't copyrighted," said Stern, who is chairman of the Taxpayers' Coal Committee. "I think it will help to solve our annual coal problem. It means we get cheaper coal—an certain coal.

"The whole trouble has been that most people won't buy it in the spring and summer when it is plentiful and cheap but persist in buying in the winter when it is dear and hard to get. Perhaps because we live in a hand-to-mouth age of living, and not everyone finds it convenient to buy a whole winter's supply at once.

"We solved this by getting a bank to carry out notes. We order our coal in January, paying an initial payment of 10 per cent of the estimated cost plus $1 a ton for a reserve fund.

The average winter's order was 10 tons. At $14 a ton, plus $1 per ton reserve made a total order of $150.

"The buyer pays $15 to the bank in January, likewise in February and March. His 10 tons of coal will be delivered in April. Then with $45 on deposit, he gives the bank his note for $105. This he pays off in monthly installments of $15, and in October having paid a few dollars interest, he has his winter's supply of coal in the cellar—paid for."

The coal says Stern, comes earload lots direct from the mines. The reserve fund is to pay incidental expenses of the coal committee and protect the bank against bad debts, and the unused balance will be distributed pro rata to the coal subscribers.

What the local retailer dealer of this idea has nothing to do with this story.

Sad part about not having a wife is you can't blame things on her.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

Eating too much meat may clog the Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, also we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SPRING STYLE CHANGES ARE MOSTLY IN DETAIL

Silhouette lines have shifted slightly—waistlines are more nearly normal—but in general, spring styles show few changes.

This means that the changes are in detail—new trimmings, new finishes, touches.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Good Coffee

Put the required number of cups of cold water in the pot. Add 1 table spoon of ground coffee for each cup and one extra and the washed shell of one egg for a teaspoon of the (egg white). Bring slowly to a boil then serve it once. Never boil coffee more than 3 minutes. Make just enough coffee for each meal. Never write over coffee—it is slow poison. Scald the pot thoroughly after each meal.

Good Tea

Soak the leaves in the pot in the dry leaves 1 teaspoon to each cup. No strainer is needed when boiling water is used. Next add the tea leaves.

All fresh meats should be placed in rapidly boiling water and after boiling minutes should be placed where the pot just simmers till tender. In rapid boiling of meat dissolves the gelatin between the fibres and when ready to serve the meat is stringy.

The more tender vegetable—peas, asparagus, beans, etc., should be put in boiling water, just enough to cover, then move to the back of the range where they simmer till tender, or they become a pulp.

Dishes, as well as silver, look better if rubbed with bon am occasionally.

If electric fixtures look worn and dull, apply a coat of gold paint. The price is reasonable. Results excellent.
